Statement regarding the UKHSA and MHRA joint press release: non-sterile alcohol-free wipes

On 4th August 2025, the UK Health Security Agency and the Medicines and Healthcare products Regulatory Agency issued a statement advising the public to stop using certain non-sterile alcohol-free wipes due to a potential risk of contamination. The statement raised concerns for these products when they are used for medical purposes such as washing wounds and cleaning medical devices.

We can confirm that all Endurance First Aid Kits contain Reliance Medical sterile saline wipes of the type recommended by the UKHSA and MHRA, and are therefore safe to use.
